Police mourn lost officer

DEATH Members of the Edmonton Police Service are mourning the loss of an officer, a man found dead in a southwest parking lot yesterday morning.

Police Chief Mike Boyd met with media yesterday afternoon and confirmed the officer was not the victim of foul play.

"The member's family and the Edmonton Police Service family are grieving the loss of a husband, a father, a son and a good friend," he said.

The man's body was found in his car shortly before 7 a.m., parked in the lot of the Windermere Wal-Mart. The officer's name will not be released.

Tax watchdog slams carbon calculator

A carbon-counting couple will be cruising eco-conscious, having been handed the keys to a green machine by Mayor Stephen Mandel yesterday.

The Zerofootprint Calculator was a carbon-reducing challenge posed to Edmontonians by the city one year ago, albeit criticized by a provincial taxation watchdog group.

The most enviro-conscious couple, Peter Chapman and Katie Barnett, were rewarded for their green lifestyle changes with a one-year lease to a Toyota Prius, a hybrid car.

"There are lots of things cities can do under the radar that aren't flashy but still green."

Scott Hennig

"Hopefully this will wear off on older people about how important sustainability is, why we need to do it, why we need to densify this city and be more creative on how we build cities because of the environmental footprint we're controlling," Mandel said.

The calculator, and the $40,000 tag for its design and online implementation, were openly criticized by the Canadian Taxpayers Federation with the 2009 Teddy Awards, where it was dubbed "Calculator 2: Judgment Day."

Spokesman Scott Hennig said the calculator replicates hundreds found online for free.

He added that financial documents reveal the entire campaign cost taxpayers over $300,000.

"There are lots of things cities can do under the radar that aren't flashy but still green," Hennig said. "But they don't get public recognition for them. Ad campaigns are costly."

Canada's Economic Action Plan: 80% Already Underway

Canada's Economic Action Plan is well underway. That's the message contained in a new Report to Canadians by the Federal Government.

The report shows that 80% of economic stimulus is already being implemented and thousands of initiatives are taking shape across the country. This unprecedented action by the Federal Government is designed to help protect Canadians from the global recession that continues to affect countries around the world.

"The federal stimulus package (is) timely, appropriately sized, diversified and well structured..."

- International Monetary Fund

Top international economic organizations have been clear in citing Canada as one of the countries that has been less affected than others by the global crisis. Experts at the International Monetary Fund (IMF) noted, "the financial strains evident elsewhere are markedly less serious in Canada."

These same experts at the IMF have also been positive in their assessment of the Federal Government's Economic Action Plan, concluding that "the federal stimulus package (is) timely, appropriately sized, structured, with steps to facilitate labor reallocation and protect the vulnerable."

In a nutshell, the Economic Action Plan encourages consumer and business spending by cutting taxes and improving access to financing. It creates jobs and promotes growth by investing in infrastructure. It assists unemployed Canadians by extending employment insurance benefits and funding skills training. And it helps build the economy of tomorrow by improving infrastructure at colleges and universities, while investing in research and technology.

With this Economic Action Plan, the Federal Government has also shown clear accountability by creating a government website, www.actionplan.gc.ca, that identifies the Action Plan benefits and programs available to Canadian families and businesses. These include benefits for home owners and home buyers, such as incentives for home renovation and first time home buyers.

Due in no small part to the action taken by the Federal Government, Canada is predicted to be amongst the first to emerge from this economic crisis. The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development has in fact predicted that Canada will lead the recovery among G7 nations in 2010.

Pecha Kucha brings out ideas from creative people in creative ways

VICTORIA HANDYSIDES

Good ideas are simply good without the work to make them great.

Edmontonians gathered last night to breathe life into good ideas with the potential for greatness.

A group of 12 outside-the-box thinkers presented a diverse list of ideas on sustainability, showing 20 images, for 20 seconds each at the fourth annual Pecha Kucha. Keeping in line with the green framework of the ICLEI conference, ideas ventured past the realm of reducing, reusing and recycling.

"Our presentations went beyond sustainability," said

CANDICE WARD FOR METRO EDMONTON

Liz Lepper, spokeswoman for Timeraiser, was one of the presenters at Pecha Kucha night held at the Shaw Conference Centre yesterday. The event was themed towards the ICLEI World Congress.

host Cary Williams. "These are people who are doing interesting and creative things in the city, and wanted to showcase what they're doing."

Forward-thinking presenters shared dreams on the future of eco-friendly transport, urban planning, and cultural preservation.

One such initiative going beyond the realm of imagination will trade volunteer hours for art pieces, in a "Timeraiser" auction set for October.

Pieces born from the minds and hands of local artists will be up for grabs, but instead of cash, bidders will offer themselves for a number of volunteer hours.

"Social sustainability is about keeping our social framework healthy," said Timeraiser presenter Liz Lepper. "So many organizations like homeless shelters and crisis lines operate on a volunteer basis. If they don't have the manpower, we all suffer."

Pecha Kucha nights are held annually in 180 cities around the globe. Last night's event at the Shaw Conference Centre saw close to 700 attendees. Ideas introduced at the previous three local events have spawned into successful, working initiatives.

"People in Edmonton really are interested in what's happening in our own city, and we're seeing how new ideas can inspire people," Williams said.

Both deem talks productive

The chances of an early federal election appeared to diminish yesterday after Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff held two rounds of "productive" talks with Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

Ignatieff threatened Monday to topple Harper's Conservatives, but the heat dropped when the two met for what both sides deemed productive discussions.

More talks were scheduled for this morning, but the outcome seemed increasingly clear. Ignatieff's ally Steve MacKinnon said on CTV that he expected "ultimately no election."

Ignatieff had said Monday he would try to bring down the Conservatives on a budgetary vote Friday unless Harper explained in detail how he planned to help Canadians survive the recession.

Although Harper quickly delivered a defiant response, Ignatieff then said he saw enough in Harper's words to indicate some progress had been made. Harper then suggested the two meet yesterday. REUTERS

Aid plan for pulp and paper expected today

HELP Canada is expected to lay out plans today to aid the pulp and paper industry, which says it has become the unintended victim of a tax windfall enjoyed by U.S. rivals.

Ottawa has been scrambling to come up with a response to the U.S. "black liquor" tax credit, which critics say has been misused by some American pulp mills, allowing them to overproduce at a time when the pulp market is already saturated.

Canada's forestry industry has been hammered by the economic crisis and the collapse of the U.S. housing market, and Ottawa has been under pressure to provide some assistance after coming to the aid of the auto sector.

Natural Resources Minister Lisa Raitt has scheduled a news conference in Ottawa for today to announced a "new program that will lay the groundwork for a greener, more sustainable future for Canada's pulp and paper industry."

He promised to end a cycle of allowing North Korea to create a nuclear crisis, then granting concessions in the form of food, fuel and other incentives to get Pyongyang to back down, only to see it renege on its promises.

Iran won't annul vote

Guardian Council may re-tally; seven killed in violence

Media ban in Iran

Iran's top legislative body yesterday ruled out annulling a disputed presidential poll that has prompted the biggest street protests since the 1979 Islamic revolution, but said it was prepared for a partial recount.

In what appeared to be a first concession by authorities to the protest movement, the 12-man Guardian Council said it was ready to re-tally votes in the poll, in which hardline President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad was declared the runaway winner.

But the powerful Council rejected reformist calls to annul Friday's election, which set off swift-moving political turmoil, riveting attention on the world's fifth biggest oil exporter, locked in a nuclear dispute with the West. State television said the "main agents" in post-election unrest had been arrested with explosives and guns. It gave no further details.

U.S. President Barack Obama, who has sought to engage Iran and asked its leadership to "unclench its fist," said he was deeply troubled by the post-election violence and that protesters who had taken to the streets had inspired the world.

Supporters of Mir Hossein Mousavi, outraged at what they viewed as a stolen election, had planned another big rally yesterday, even though seven people were killed on Monday on the fringes of a vast march through the streets of Tehran. REUTERS

Snowbirds: An ironic emblem of failure

TheWestView

Paul Sullivan

metronews.ca/thewestview

The Snowbirds are grounded ... again. You know about the Snowbirds? Those guys who turn up at air shows in their 40-plus-year-old jets expected to perform crowd-pleasing, death-defying manoeuvres?

Except they don't always defy death. At least seven brave pilots have died since the Snowbirds started flying back in 1971, and as the planes get longer in the tooth, the threat of fatal mechanical failure is greater than ever.

And they don't always fly. The fleet of 20 Tutor CT-114 jets has had a permanent maintenance crew assigned to them since 2001, but that hasn't prevented the latest problem with the jet's ejection seat.

So they're grounded and, as I write, may not be ready for the big flypast on Parliament Hill on July 1. Not that you'll notice. The flypast takes about as long as it takes a politician to clear his or her throat.

Ahem. I've got to ask: How long are we going to keep this nonsense up?

The program costs $10 million a year, which is a spit in the bucket in a country where we seem required to have a $300-million election at least as often as a flypast, but the real cost is in human lives.

And what's the point? Why are we making these people take enormous risks in ridiculously outdated technology? It's like having a team of precision gondoliers or acrobatic shepherds, only more dangerous.

Quaint, but deadly.

Maybe if they were flying around in cool, state-of-the-art technology, I could understand, but these guys are in the airborne equivalent of a 1965 Chrysler. And how many vintage Chryslers do you see on the road, never mind in the air?

These things are so obsolete, every year another component becomes impossible to repair. Maintenance crews have started salvaging dials and tubes from other obsolete Canadian aircraft such as the decommissioned Hercules and sticking them on the Tutors.

Meanwhile, Canadians are busy getting blown up in Absurdistan. Our forces need all the help they can get, but instead they are hobbled with outdated, obsolete aircraft and ground equipment. If anything, the Snowbirds are possible we insist on putting in harm's way.

The government is seriously thinking about keeping these guys in the air until 2020, when no amount of chewing gum and binder twine will keep them airborne.

I, for one, hope they stay grounded. But I must be a communist or some other kind of subversive. But I don't mind — it's safer than being a precision gondolier.

Newfoundland, Hibernia group agree on oilfield

PROJECT The government of Newfoundland and Labrador has signed a memorandum of understanding with a consortium that includes Exxon Mobil Corp. to develop the 220-million barrel Hibernia South oilfield off the province's coast.

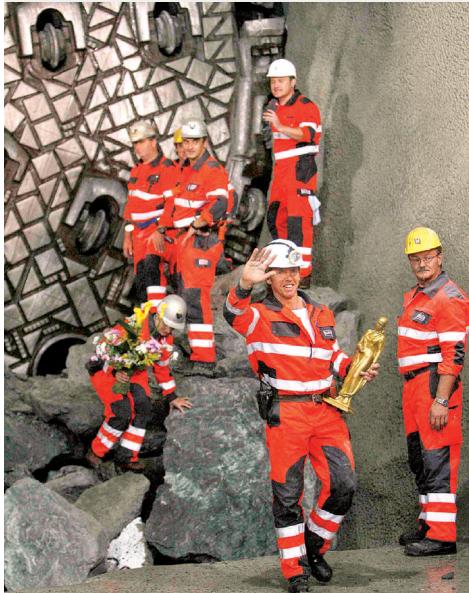

The new field will augment existing production from the Hibernia oilfield, 315 kilometres southeast of St. John's.

The agreement will see Hibernia's backers agree to surrender a 10 per cent equity stake in the new field to the province and pay higher royalties.

Nalcor, a provincially owned energy firm, will pay $30 million for the 10 per cent interest.

A formal agreement between Newfoundland and Hibernia's partners is expected to be signed next February, the provincial government said in a statement. There is still no timetable for the development of the field. REUTERS

Air Canada seeks loan

Airline asking government for $200M: Flaherty

Cash-strapped Air Canada has approached the government for a loan, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said yesterday as the airline works against the clock to stave off possible bankruptcy.

Flaherty said Canada's biggest airline was in discussions with Export Development Canada for a commercial loan. A source close to the talks said the carrier was asking the federal financing agency for about $200 million, a third of the $600 million the carrier says it needs in the short term.

"Air Canada has had some discussions with Export Development Canada about possibly borrowing on commercial terms, but those are discussions that are ongoing," Flaherty told reporters.

His comments come hours after Air Canada announced it had reached tentative agreements with the Air Canada Pilots Association and the Canadian Union of Public Employees on a 21-month moratorium on funding its $2.9 billion pension deficit.

An agreement with the unions on pensions and securing financing are crucial to keeping the debt-laden airline, which has been buffeted by a global slowdown in air travel and stiff competition at home, from filing for bankruptcy for the second time in six years.

The source said any loans to Air Canada would come from EDC's Canada Account, which is for transactions outside EDC's responsibility but deemed to be in the national interest.

The loan would be negotiated on a commercial basis and would not be considered by the government as a bailout. The EDC would administer the loan but the federal government would take on the risk. REUTERS

RIM to launch new BlackBerry model

WIRELESS Research In Motion is adding another smartphone to its BlackBerry lineup as it aims to win market share among both executives and mainstream consumers despite tough economic conditions.

The new model is known as the BlackBerry Tour and falls somewhere between the BlackBerry Curve, which has proved very popular with consumers, and the BlackBerry Bold, which RIM has aimed at high-end corporate users.

Even though the device isn't drastically different from many other BlackBerry ry handsets in appearance, RIM co-chief executive Jim Balsillie said the Tour is a "big step forward."

It is what RIM calls a "world phone," which means it can easily access voice and data services on networks outside the user's home country. This has proven popular with business users in the past.

To appeal to the retail market, the Tour is loaded with multimedia features similar to those found in the BlackBerry Curve and Pearl.

Balsillie said device will soon launch with Telus and Bell in Canada. REUTERS

Funding questioned

CFL to amend financial rules in wake of secret deal

The Canadian Football League has announced plans to change its financial rules after it was revealed that British Columbia Lions owner David Braley helped Howard Sokolowski and David Cynamon purchase the Toronto Argonauts out of bankruptcy in 2003.

The Globe and Mail first reported the secret transaction and the league responded with a statement acknowledging the pact. Both ownership groups also provided statements, and all three parties said the league's bylaws were not broken.

Braley, according to the Globe and Mail, paid half of the $2-million franchise fee for the purchase and continued to provide financial assistance to the Argos afterward.

The league, while saying it had no knowledge of the transaction at the time, said Braley never had a stake in the Argos and added that competition between the teams was never compromised.

"I have been informed that British Columbia Lions owner David Braley provided financial assistance to Toronto Argonaut owners Howard Sokolowski and David Cynamon, as they sought to strengthen our league by strengthening a storied franchise in our largest city," CFL commissioner Mark Cohon said in a statement. "There has been no suggestion, nor is there any evidence, that this financial transaction had any effect whatsoever on the competitive integrity of our game."

"There is every indication that all three of these gentlemen acted, and continue to act, out of love for the Canadian Football League and respect for its fans. There has also been no breach of the league's Constitution or its bylaws. However, there is clearly a need for improved transparency in such matters. And I intend to work with our Board of Governors to revise our rules so that such financial transactions, no matter how well intended, must be shared with the Commissioner and all governors."

Balsillie won't drop dog fight

NHL Jim Balsillie isn't giving up hope. The billionaire, however, chose not to show up for a news conference called on his behalf, letting others do his speaking for him when it comes to his continued pursuit of the Phoenix Coyotes.

"His commitment remains completely unchanged," said Balsillie spokesman Bill Walker, saying his boss was busy with work as co-founder of Research in Motion the day after a judge rejected his $212.5-million (US) offer to buy and relocate the team. "He's committed to Hamilton, he's committed to Copps Coliseum."

"He just sees this as another day at the office. He's moving forward. He's completely unfazed. 'What's next?' is his question."

The NHL will be paying the bills of the Coyotes and, as a secured creditor, will get its money back when the team is ultimately sold.

Graduating from school

SAVINGS Graduating from university or college is a major accomplishment, and a major step forward in your life.

If there was ever a time to take a balanced approach to saving and spending, it's now. This can help you begin the next stage of your life on strong financial ground.

"While it may be hard to resist the urge to buy everything you want as soon as you land that first good-paying job, also think of where you want to be in five or 10 years and start a plan to help get you there," says Kavita Joshi, RBC's director of student markets.

This can include many things that might not be top of mind but which new grads should think about, such as having an emergency fund.

"You need to cushion yourself in case of unexpected expenses, including periods of unemployment."

Take a balanced approach to spending and saving as soon as your finish your education.

ment," says Joshi. "Set up a separate savings account not linked to your everyday bank account, and save up for three to six months of everyday living expenses."

Next, start paying off your debt based on which debt has the highest interest rate — this usually means credit cards. That can leave you with more money to start saving for something else new graduates want: A new car or home. The sooner you plan and prepare, the closer you will be to getting what you want.

Kia dreams big with Forte

Stylish compact replaces Spectra

LORNE DRURY
for Metro Canada

Building compact, economical cars has been Kia's forte over the years and for 2010 the Korean manufacturer has added a new Forte to its sales arsenal.

The 2010 Kia Forte replaces the Spectra in the Kia lineup and brings a touch of styling pizzazz that is gradually evolving for Kia, as it becomes more of a global player in the automotive marketplace.

Kia has an ambitious goal to be the "design choice brand without high product pricing" and the Forte is a great example of the current philosophy.

While not an in-your-face design, it is clean and attractive and a worthy challenger for the class leaders, Honda Civic, Toyota Corolla and Mazda3.

This is an extremely important vehicle for Kia in the most competitive class in the Canadian market. In fact, six of the top 10 cars sold in Canada compete directly with the Forte. And almost 50 per cent of all cars sold in this country are compact models, with the Civic, Corolla and Mazda3.

2010 Kia Forte

accounting for about 40 per cent of that total.

Heavy competition indeed, but Kia has high hopes for the Forte, a five-passenger sedan, starting at $15,695.

Available in three trim levels, the Forte has one of the roomiest interiors in its class. Built on an entirely new platform, the Forte has a longer wheelbase than the outgoing Spectra, which allowed engineers to increase the size of the interior package with room for five adults.

The longer wheelbase also improves driving dynamics, while wider front and rear tracks increase stability on the road.

Trunk space is also up 17 per cent compared with the Spectra to 415 litres, the largest trunk capacity in its class.

Two brand new engines power the Forte. The LX and EX get a 2.0-litre DOHC in-line four-cylinder, producing 157 hp and 144 lb/ft of torque. The top-of-the-line SX has a 2.4-litre in-line four-cylinder engine, with 174 hp and 169 lb/ft of torque. Standard on the LX and EX is a five-speed manual transmission or an optional four-speed automatic. The SX gets a standard six-speed manual or an optional five-speed automatic with Sportmatic sequential manual shift.

Even at the entry level, the Forte is well equipped with six airbags (dual front, dual front side and dual curtain), four-wheel disc brakes, ABS, power windows/locks/heated mirrors, steering wheel-mounted audio controls and a four-speaker AM/FM/CD/MP3 audio system with auxiliary and USB input ports.

Fuel economy is impressive—8.3L/100 km (34 mpg) city and 5.8L/100 km (49 mpg) highway with the manual transmission and

Ford takes on shopping carts

SAFETY Ford Motor Company has ushered in new, extreme tests — such as ramming shopping carts into car doors and blasting water cannons to force vehicles into skids — to fine tune new safety technologies.

"These novel tests may seem over the top, but they're part of a serious testing regimen that Ford had to invent, because increasingly sophisticated technologies require more advanced testing," said Sue Cischke, group vice-president, Ford sustainability, environment and safety engineering.

"We will continue to build on our safety leadership with advanced safety technologies that help enhance crash protection or even help customers avoid accidents."

Ford engineers conduct

In one of Ford's unusual tests to improve car safety, a lab robot repeatedly pushes a shopping cart loaded with a 110-pound weight into the vehicle doors at 10 miles per hour.

unusual "crash" tests to take thousands of impact readings that help calibrate the sensitivity of new air bag pressure sensors being introduced on the new 2009 F-150 and 2010 Taurus.

Engineers, however, were concerned that everyday mishaps — such as shopping cart collisions in parking lots or errant basketballs from children — could trick the new sensors that now help predict crash forces before the full impact occurs. The engineers used reams of data from these unusual tests to calibrate the air bag sensor to disregard typically minor collisions.

GM looking at future small car

PLAN General Motors recently announced that it plans to build a future small car in the United States utilizing an idled UAW-GM facility. This vehicle adds to GM's growing portfolio of U.S.-built, highly fuel efficient cars including the Chevrolet Cruze and Volt. "Small cars represent one of the fastest growing segments in both the U.S. and around the world," said Fritz Henderson, GM president and CEO.

These Greek islands offer a bit of quiet

ZOE KOSKINIDOU
Metro World News

Looking to escape the summer crowds in Greece's most popular island destinations? Zoe Koskinidou, gives us her insider tips on where the celebrities go when they want to find a secret paradise.

Patmos

Why go: The island is dubbed the Jerusalem of the Aegean, because John the Evangelist wrote the Book of Revelations there in 95 AD. But visitors don't need to be religious to enjoy the island: Patmos combines a laidback pace of life with lively nightlife.

What to see and do: The most important attraction here is the fortress-like monastery of St. John, built in 1088 by monk Christodoulos. Halfway between Chora and Scala, the island's port, there is the Grotto of the Apocalypse, where the manuscript was written.

Where to stay: Casteli Hotel, casteli.gr, by the beach of the port has rooms for 45-75 euros a night for a double room and Byzance Hotel, byzancehotel.gr, in Scala with room rates from 30 to 100 euros per room per night.

What to buy: Porcelain, crystal and silver items. Patmos is also famous for its elegant embroidery.

The entrance to the port of Kastellorizo, which is among the smallest of the Greek islands.

Where to eat: George's place at Cambos offers great Greek cuisine and is a great place for celebrity spotting. Try Kima at Aspri for fish dishes and a unique view.

Where to drink: for early drinks try Astivi in the town of Chora. After midnight, Casbah at the port town of Scala is a total must for visitors who really want to have fun, drink and dance all night long.

Celebrities on the island: David Bowie has a house in the island, and it's the favourite holiday spot of fashion designer Valentino.

Kastellorizo

Why go: This is one of the smallest Greek islands, located near the island of Rhodes and close to Turkey. Getting there involves a bit of a long journey, but the beauty of the place is ample reward.

The results of a new TNS Canadian Facts survey called show more than half of Canadians are planning an out-of-town vacation in the coming 12 months, with an average of three such trips on the agenda. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Left, a view of cliffs and the sea on Paxos in the Ionian islands. Right, a terrace on Patmos, another of the Greek islands recommended by our correspondent.

What to see and do: The famous aqua-colored cave of Kastellorizo is a geological phenomena and one of the most amazing formations on earth — the island is worth visiting for this cave alone. It's situated south of the island and the entrance is the height of a small boat that can just pass through the mouth when the sea is calm at dawn.

Where to stay: Try the quiet rooms of Damien's and Monika's Pension (Tel. 0030 22460 49028).

What to buy: When in Kastellorizo you must buy katoumaria, a local sweet and strava, a sort of fried baklava filled with walnuts and spices.

Where to eat: There are several small taverns on the island. Wherever you go try seafood dishes and chickpea balls.

Where to drink: Although Kastellorizo is a very small island, you can find several bars to enjoy an early drink. Keep in mind that it is a quiet island, best suited for people who want to spend their vacations on the beach and have a great Greek dinner after a swim.

Celebrities on the island:

Princess Caroline of Hanover (and Monaco) picked the remote island to spend her holidays with her family.

Paxos

Why to go: Forget Corfu and Kefalonia — Paxos is the place to be if you want to visit the Ionian islands. Paxos, the baby of that group, is actually a cluster of small islands and rocky islets, the largest of which are Paxos and Antipaxos. The capital of Paxos is Gaios, a picturesque village build around a port which is protected by two small islands, Agios Nikolaos and Panagitsa.

What to see and do: Visit Antipaxos and go to see the traditional vineyards. Another essential place to visit are the magical caves of Magonissi.

What to buy: One of the main products of Paxos is olive oil. You can also buy excellent wine from Antipaxos' vineyards.

Where to stay: Villa Kastanida, is a beautifully restored farmhouse with private pool set amongst the olive groves. Or you can stay at Villa Lironiskari, a charming traditional villa situated on a headland at the entrance to Magonissi Bay, just a short drive south of Gaios town.

Where to drink: Paxos is an island best suited for the romantic souls of this world — you won't find it full of wild clubs and bars.

Celebrities on the island: Actors Albert Finney and Suzanne York and the Italian Agnelli family, who run Fiat, are among those who have chosen Paxos for their vacations.

GREGORY ADAMANTIME OUT GUIDES

5 top tapas bars

Barcelona dishes up its take on tapas menu

The Catalan city of Barcelona is so popular with holidaymakers that it's hard to avoid falling into the trap of the ubiquitous tourist menu when you go out to eat.

Follow our guide, an exclusive extract from Time Out's new city guide to Barcelona, and you'll always strike lucky when you step out for tapas.

Comerç 24

"Tapas," says Michelin-starred chef Carles Abellán, "are one Spanish thing

I really like." He's not talking about the Spain he lives in, he's talking about the other Spain, the Spain that does not include Catalonia.

This passionately felt divide is one of the reasons that tapas bars in Barcelona tend to be oriented to tourism, where they exist at all. They are simply not seen as Catalan enough.

Abellán set about to change all that a few years ago, with his übercool Comerç 24. Often described by international press as an "avant-garde tapas restaurant," in fact it serves plátanos, small dishes of which the diner can order several.

These are inspired by Abellán's time in the kitchens of El Bulli, under experimental chef Ferran Adrià, and bear little resemblance to the ham croquettes and patatas bravas to which he refers.

His newer venture, Tapaç 24 redresses the balance: an old-school bar, serving traditional tapas of excellent quality. Among the lentils with chorizo and cod croquettes, however, his fans will also find playful snacks more in keeping with his previous style.

The McFoie Burger is an exercise in fast-food heaven, as is the Bikini — a small version of his signature take on the ham and cheese toastie, this one with truffle.

- Comerç 24, C/Diputació 269, Metro Passeig de Gràcia. Open 9 a.m.-midnight Mon.-Sat.; carlesabellan.com.

Quimet I Quimet

Packed to the rafters with dusty bottles of wine, this classic but minuscule bar makes up for in tapas what it lacks in space. The specialities are conservas (shellfish preserved in tins), which aren't always to non-Spanish tastes, but montaditos, sculpted tapas served on bread, are spectacular.

Try salmon sashimi with cream cheese, honey and soy, or cod passata and black olive pate. Get there early for any chance of a surface on which to put your drink.

- Quimet I Quimet, C/Poeta Cabanyes 25, Metro Paral·lel. Open noon-4 p.m., 7-10:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri.; noon-4 p.m. Sat.; closed Aug.

Inopia

Inopia opened by Albert Adrià a couple of years ago, and it's been rammed ever since. As with Tapaç24, the emphasis has been on a revival of old techniques and recipes, using the best ingredients.

Intopia's stark, overlit look and awkwardly L-shaped room, along with a determinedly straightforward approach was initially a disappointment for those expecting El-Bulli style culinary fireworks, but has since won over the public with a slavish devotion to finding the best-quality produce and meticulous care in its preparation.

- Inopia, C/Tamarit 104, Metro Poble Sec. Open 7-11 p.m., Mon.-Fri.: 1:30-3 p.m., 7-11 p.m. Sat.; closed Aug. barinopia.com.

Bar Celta

Bar Celta unapologetically '60s interior is fiercely lit, noisy and not recommended for anyone feeling a bit rough. It is, however, one of the more authentic experiences to be had in the Gòtic. A Galician tapas bar, it specialises in food from the region, such as lacón con grelos (boiled gammon with turnip tops) and good seafood, accompanied by crisp Albariño wine served in traditional white ceramic bowls. A characterful place.

- Bar Celta, C/Mercè 16, Metro Drassanes. Open noon-midnight Tues-Sun.

Euskal Etxea

This is a Basque cultural centre and the best of the city's many pintxo bars. Help yourself to dainty jamón serrano croissants, chicken tempura with saffron mayonnaise, melted provolone with mango and crispy ham, or a mini-brochette of pork, but hang on to the toothpicks spearing each one: they'll be counted and charged for at the end.

- Euskal Etxea, Placeta Montcada 103, Metro Barcelona or Jaume I. Open bar 7 p.m.-midnight Mon; noon-5 p.m., 7 p.m.-midnight Tue.-Sat. Restaurant 8:30-11:30 p.m. Mon.; 1:30-4 p.m., 8:30-11:30 p.m. Tue.-Sat. METRO NEWS SERVICES

for Metro Canada

For seven years, Chris Dunphy sat behind a desk, giving people financial advice on behalf of RBC. Now, you'd be hard pressed to find him sitting at all.

"I thought I was more a part of the problem as opposed to part of the solution — giving people loans, credit lines, advising on their finances and watching their self-worth rise and fall with the value of their RSPs," he said on the phone from Port Moody, B.C.

Chris Dunphy in the lotus pose at his Port Moody, B.C. studio.

Dunphy, 35, left the security of the institution, trading in dollars for downward dogs. Always athletic, and slowly realizing the limitations of an aging body, he decided to make a 180-degree career change and pursue yoga instruction.

"I found people were wrapped up in the material," he said. "Yoga gets you out of that and says all the rest of this stuff is just frills. If you can't be happy with yourself, no amount of frills is going to make you happy."

He shed excess, refinanced his home and opened Newport Yoga Studio in Port Moody in late 2006. Now, his studio offers 15 different kinds of yoga and pilates classes, taught by nine different instructors.

To become a certified teacher, Dunphy took an intensive 200-hour course at the Salt Spring Centre of Yoga on Salt Spring Island, B.C. Standards to become certified vary across regions. But the international body Yoga Alliance outlines educational requirements necessary to be dubbed a registered yoga teacher (RYT) that include technique, teaching, anatomy and philosophy training over a 200- or 500-hour period.

"Once you get into yoga instruction, you're a yoga student for the rest of your life," said Dunphy.

Dunphy said there are dozens of styles to try out. "There are so many areas to continue to learn and grow in terms of teaching and practice."

WORKPLACE RELATIONSHIPS

Lean economic times do not appear to have harmed work relationships, a new survey suggests. Eighty-seven per cent of professionals interviewed recently said they have a good rapport with their supervisors and 95 per cent get along well with coworkers. In fact, slightly more respondents today described their relationships with supervisors and peers as "very good" than did participants in a 2005 survey on the same subject. The Accountants survey was conducted by an independent research firm.

Golden Girl says 'yes'

The Proposal's Betty White keeping busy at age 87

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Before we even get started with our interview, Betty White wants to make one thing clear: She loves Canadians. Absolutely adores them. "I wish Americans could take manners lessons from them. They are so nice," she gushes. "We get some rather rude, hurried people here sometimes."

Best known for her iconic roles on The Golden Girls and The Mary Tyler Moore Show, 87-year-old White is still quite active professionally, making regular guest appearances on The Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson and Boston Legal, and game shows like Million Dollar Password.

She's also been popping up in scene-stealing roles in films like the upcoming The Proposal, with Sandra Bullock and Ryan Reynolds.

With another project co-starring Sigourney Weaver and Jamie Lee Curtis about to start, the word "retirement" doesn't even register for White — though she has earned the luxury of being picky.

"They send me scripts, and some of them are not what you might call wonderful," she confides.

To most, though, White will always be Rose Nyland, the naive Minnesota native sharing a house with three friends in The Golden Girls. The recent passing of costars Estelle Getty and Bea Arthur has only bolstered the show's popularity.

And the outpouring of support after Arthur lost her battle to cancer earlier this year offered some comfort to the grieving White.

The word "retirement" doesn't register for Betty White, left, who can be seen next in The Proposal with Sandra Bullock.

"She meant so much to so many people. It was heartening to see how much they rallied."

Saying goodbye, especially so soon after Getty passed away, was tough but necessary. "We had to let her go. She was so sick," White says. "She was in terrible trouble, pain-wise."

And the morphine couldn't reach it. But she was someone special."

White says she's been keeping in touch even more these days with Rue McClanahan, the other surviving Golden Girl. "We've been clinging to each other ever since losing Estelle and losing Bea."

Probably the same thing they do in Canada.

Movie feature

Another comfort has been the continuing popularity of the series, which still confounds White to some degree.

"When the DVD came out, I thought who's going to watch it? We're on four times a day. They know the lines better than we ever did," White jokes. "But sure enough, the DVD keeps selling all over the world. I hear from Finland, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka. Will you explain to me what people see in old broads in Sri Lanka?"

Probably the same thing they do in Canada.

The Proposal
hits theatres

A role fit for a king

Anthony Head plays ruler, father to Prince Arthur in spin on classic

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Best known as stuffy mentor Rupert Giles on Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Anthony Head is returning to TV screens in Merlin, a BBC import that puts a new spin on a classic British tale.

Head takes on the role of Uther, ruthless king and father of the impetuous Prince Arthur. Between the crown and tunic and the bloodthirsty brutishness, it's about as far from Buffy's cultured occult expert Giles as you could get. And that's just how Head likes it.

"I'm lucky to be in an industry that I can do anything," he says, easing back in his chair in the dining room of a Pasadena, Calif., hotel.

"I've worked quite hard at not being pigeonholed, not being limited by a role that I've done. I've turned down an awful lot of Giles-similar roles. Like professors and librarians, an awful lot of that."

In the meantime, he's popped up in a number of British TV series, going for laughs in Little Britain and My Family, and devouring children on Doctor Who. He was even rumoured to be one of the top choices to play the new Doctor on the long-running series, something he shrugs off.

"There have always been bets that I might be the new Doctor," he says.

Head prefers audiences get a chance to see his range. "I've done quite a few different things," he explains. To that end, he's glad that Merlin is making the jump across the pond. But he confides that the series — a kind of Smallville version of the King Arthur legend focusing on young Arthur and the wizard as teenage pals — almost didn't make it because producers couldn't find one key element.

"They nearly cancelled it because they couldn't find Camelot," he says. "They combed Europe, but they couldn't find anything that ticked all the boxes."

But producers discovered Chateau de Pierrefonds in northern France just in time. Restored by

Napoleon III in the 1850s, the castle has held up better than its medieval predecessors.

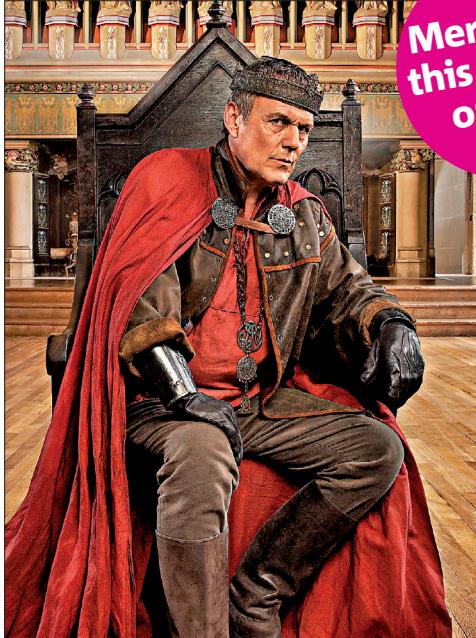

"It's almost new," Head jokes. "Though it's got a few bits chipped out of it from where the Germans shot at it in the Second World War."

"It's absolutely beautiful. You've got this incredible depth that you could not create on a set." And Head admits that the setting does make his job a lot easier.

"I walked in and went, 'Oh my god, I'm king.' I don't have to do any work, because this does it," he remembers. "This makes me king. All you have to do is turn up and be present."

Nice work if you can get it.

Merlin airs this Sunday on CTV.

Nanny backtracks on Beckhams

COURTS David Beckham and his wife Victoria received an apology from a former nanny at London's High Court yesterday over her disclosures of confidential information about the celebrity couple.

The case resulted from allegations made by Abbie Gibson about the private lives of the England player and his former Spice Girl wife after she had resigned from her job.

Her claims were printed in a newspaper article in April 2005, captioned "Beckhams behind closed doors."

Yesterday the couple's lawyer Gerrard Tyrrell told the High Court Gibson had now agreed to "permanent undertakings of confidentiality," the Press Association reported.

She had "unconditionally apologized to David and Victoria Beckham and their family for breaching her duties of confidence" and had also withdrawn a claim for constructive dismissal, he said.

David and Victoria Beckham have received a public apology.

"Between May 2003 and March 2005, Ms Gibson was employed as the nanny to David and Victoria Beckham's children," Tyrrell told the court.

"After she resigned from their employment, she gave an interview to the News of the World. In this interview she disclosed private and confidential information about the Beckhams and their family."

The judge was also told that in July 2005, The People newspaper published an article headlined "Beckham's Hate Calls To Nanny," which falsely stated that David Beckham had made insulting and threatening telephone calls to Gibson. The paper later publicly apologized and paid libel damages to Beckham.

A penchant for holding back kept Tara Didon, 19, from moving forward as she was eliminated from Canada's Next Top Model last night.

The tall, lean model from Chateauguay, Quebec had been frequently told by judges she had the best body of all the girls in the competition but was lacking something in her pictures. Last night's episode saw the final seven models deal with stage-fright and pronunciation issues as they tried to do a television ad, with real-life supermodel Irina Lazareanu looking on for moral support. The girls were given burlap bags to wear and told to "sell it" as they tried to read a script about the history of fashion.

Confused faces and butchered designer names abounded (one contestant actually referred to iconic label Chanel as "channel") but Heather managed to project some personality to win the challenge.

For this week's photo shoot, the girls had to model with a piece of duct tape covering their mouths, showing off that they could use their eyes to speak for them instead. Ever-expanding Rebecca had a meltdown as she thought the other girls were mocking her at her shoot while Tara yet again failed to impress judges with her photo, prompting show host Jay Manuel to call her a "woman holding back," a comment Tara had seen levelled at her by judges in previous weeks as well. The judges eliminated her and she became the fifth person to leave the show this season.

Didon says she had an amazing experience on the show and wholeheartedly agrees with the judges' assessment, though she does feel she could have eventually been more successful on the show.

"Definitely I did hold back during the competition. I don't really know why — I know I could have done better," Didon said.

While she doesn't think she's a particularly shy person, she admits to feeling inexperienced at modelling compared to some of the other girls in the competition.

"For me, I felt like I needed to work harder than some of the other girls to get a great picture," she said.

Now that she's off the show, Didon is taking a slew of math courses to pursue a degree in finance. While she hopes to continue to model, she will always put her family life first.

"Whatever comes my way, I'm going to take it but modeling has never been my priority in life," Didon said.

Aerosmith guitarist on the mend

HEALTH Aerosmith guitarist Brad Whitford hopes to rejoin his bandmates early next month after a head injury prevented him from playing on their newly launched tour, fellow guitarist Joe Perry said on Sunday.

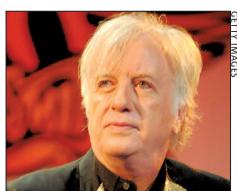

Whitford, 57, is recovering from surgery for internal bleeding after he apparently banged his head while getting out of his Ferrari about a week before the tour began last Wednesday in St. Louis.

"It built up pressure and gave him this whoopin' headache," Perry told Reuters. "He's not prone to getting migraines, so knew something was wrong. He went right in, they did what they had to do, and now he's getting better."

The target date for Whitford's return is July 7, when the band is scheduled to play a show in Raleigh, North Carolina, Perry said. Subbing for him is Bobby Schenck, who has played with Green Day and Weezer.

Rocking out with Aerosmith can be hazardous for your health. Four out of five group members have disclosed major medical problems in the last three years, including Perry who has been plagued by a bad knee ever since he fell off a stage in Dallas 25 years ago. He underwent knee-replacement surgery in March 2008, but was "devastated" to learn around Christmas that the area had become infected, like a "rotten grapefruit," he said, and he would need to go through the whole procedure again.

Lindsay the jewel thief?

SUSPECT She may have been the last one seen wearing them, but did Lindsay Lohan steal $400,000 US worth of Dior jewels from her Elle photo shoot?

Under investigation by Scotland Yard, the disappearance of a set of diamond earrings and a necklace was reported on June 8. The baubles were on loan for a June 6 magazine shoot, people.com reports.

"We inquired and everyone from the shoot is being questioned," Lohan's rep told People. "Hair, makeup, stylist ... even photographers. Lindsay hopes they find the jewels. She is happy to co-operate."

A police spokeswoman told People: "Inquiries are continuing and no arrests have been made. As far as who we will be interviewing — we will be speaking to a number of people in connection with the inquiry and don't discuss the identity of the people we are planning to interview."

Meanwhile, a spokeswoman for Elle U.K. released a statement exonerating the 22-year-old star. "Elle has no reason to believe that Lindsay Lohan was in any way responsible and has no further comment to make."

I considered suicide after voice mail fallout: Alec

BIG MISTAKE It was the private voice mail message not meant to be shared and yet ended up being heard by nearly everyone — Alec Baldwin's angry April 2007 tirade against his daughter, Ireland, accusing the then-11-year-old of being a "rude little pig" who needed to have her "ass straightened out" after she had "humiliated me for the last time."

Now, the star admits in a candid interview with Playboy, he contemplated killing himself after the phone message was exposed, people.com reports.

At the time, Baldwin and his ex-wife, Kim Basinger, were in the sixth year of their bitter custody battle. After the message went public, Baldwin apologized on The View and wrote an advice book for divorced fathers, A Promise to Ourselves. But reaching that point was arduous.

Describing his suicidal thoughts as "very serious," the 51-year-old said, "If I committed suicide, (Kim Basinger's side) would have considered that a victory. Destroying me was their avowed goal."

Evan lived in Jodie's shadow

MINI-ME Evan Rachel Wood didn't know whether to "kiss or punch" Jodie Foster when they met to discuss her role in forthcoming film Flora Plum — because she blames the Oscar winner for a childhood trauma, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

As a child, Wood was pushed to emulate the actress' career by her mother, who was obsessed with the Oscar winner. The 21-year-old even attended the same schools and learned to speak French — like her mom's idol — so Wood found meeting Foster in person an odd experience.

She told the New York Daily News, "I had to sit my mom down one day and look at her and say,

"I'm not Jodie Foster. I'm me, and that's who I'm going to be. OK?"

Katy bullies name twin

FAME GETTING TO HER HEAD? Singer Katy Perry is making life difficult for fashion designer Katie Perry, suing her and demanding she change her name.

"I got such a huge shock. It really felt like I was being intimidated and bullied into signing everything away," the Australian designer said, according to Hollyscoop. "(The letter) asked me to give up the trademark, withdraw sale of my clothes, withdraw any advertising and any websites and sign that I will not in the future use a similar trademark to Katy Perry."

There's only one problem. It appears that the fashion designer was in business before the singer. "I love my business. I'm not going to give it away without a fight," the designer said.
